This chart courtesy Zerohedge.com shows Global Liquidity (dark green), along with the anticipated rise in Bitcoin. The message here is that liquidity is on the rise again (energy for gold and silver), meanwhile Bitcoin investors are expected to drive Bitcoin higher.

This chart courtesy US Treasury shows a large budget surplus (thanks in part to DOGE), during April. This announcement, along with the reduction in tensions between the US and China was likely responsible for the $100 drop in the gold price on May 12th.

This chart courtesy Zerohedge.com shows payments on the interest on US Federal Debt continue to rise. This rise is expected to go on and will cause gold and silver to increase in price.

This chart courtesy US Treasury shows the positive effect (for the US Treasury) of tariffs. So far so good.

This chart courtesy the Macro Butler shows the influence of gold ETFs in China on the price of gold.

This chart is also courtesy the Macro Butler.

This chart courtesy US FED shows US tax receipts are in rising mode. This tells us that the US economy will likely muddle through.

This chart courtesy US FED shows US Public Debt continues to rise. This provides energy for the gold and silver bull markets.

This chart courtesy Jesse Colombo shows gold is carving out a trading range. A rise above $3,500.00 will mark the start of the next rally. The number of ounces backing GLD is unchanged and the GDI closed at 75% compared to 85% the day before.

Featured is GDX the miners ETF. Price dropped Monday and Tuesday as investors took the lessening of tensions between the US and China as a reason to buy Wall street stocks and dump gold. The green line at 46 shows support and in the event that price is pushed lower there is further support at the green arrow. A close above the blue arrow will confirm a bottom and a close above the brown arrow will mark the start of a new rally.

=== >>> MODEL PORTFOLIO

Each report will show the trades that were completed since the last report.

Since I do most of my trading on the TSX, I will show the stock symbol for the US equivalent in brackets. Note: when trading a pink sheet listed stock, you should always buy or sell using a specific price - never a 'market' order.

To benefit from this feature, pull up a chart for any of the symbols that I buy or sell. Determine if you want to do likewise or wait for another opportunity. If you're not sure of the fundamentals, - click on the website link provided. Always make sure the index or ETF that represents the sector is in harmony with your trade. I apologize for the short time I stay in some stocks, but this is all based on chart patterns. If the chart pattern changes from positive to negative - I usually run. Here are some of my trading habits:

- I eliminate all emotion. Stocks are simply investments that I use to improve the bottom line. I pick a stock or commodity because I think the chart pattern looks positive. Once I decide that we are operating in a bull market, I don't bother with sell stops - I patiently wait for the stock or ETF to come back into positive territory.
- When I do sell below my cost, I look at the loss as an opportunity to get into a winner.

- I use the 20 day and 30 day exponential moving averages at Stockcharts.com to help me decide when to buy and when to sell. Then I draw a channel, just as I do in the reports I issue. As long as the stock stays in the channel, I'll keep it as part of the portfolio, unless I decide to take profits.
- You've heard people say: 'Buy Low – Sell High'. Here is a variation on that advice: BUY HIGH – SELL HIGHER! It has been my experience that buying stocks that have just broken out to a new 5 year high have been the best performers in my portfolio. When a stock or commodity has reached this stage, there is 'blue sky' ahead.
- Next I look at the supporting indicators – especially the Accumulation/Distribution line. When a stock or commodity becomes overbought (such as trading near the top of the channel, or making a 'double or triple' top), I usually sell all or part of my holding into the rally. . Over time I try to replace these stocks during pullbacks.
- Finally I make sure that the sector in which the stock or commodity operates, is moving in the same direction as the stock of commodity that I am about to buy.

Here are some kernels of wisdom from a very successful trader, Jesse Stine:

- Emotional intelligence is of utmost importance.
- Discipline is key
- Drawdowns are lessons.
- Patience is very important
- Ignore the news media
- Have faith in your system
- Trade with confidence
- Never get attached to a stock
- Be a contrarian
- Be a lone wolf.

Featured is the silver chart. Price is still working on a trading range. The rise above the blue arrow calls for a target at the green arrow. A breakout at the green arrow will mark the start of a rally. The number of ounces backing SLV is unchanged.

Featured is SIL the silver producers ETF. Price is rising inside the blue channel. The blue arrow points to support and the target is at the green arrow. The SIs are positive and the MAs are in positive alignment and rising.

This chart courtesy Jesse Colombo shows copper in the process of carving out an ARAT pattern. A rise above 5.00 will turn the trend bullish.

Religious But Lost

Good Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?

— Mark 10:17

The story of the rich young ruler (in Matthew 19, Mark 10, and Luke 18) is addressed specifically not to the bum, not to the criminal, not to the person in the jailhouse, but to those who regularly frequent the church sanctuary. It is directed toward the religious-but-lost category, of which there are millions in our country today.

It is directed toward those who are respectable, reverent, and worshipful. They are not out on the beach on Sunday mornings, but they are frequently at the house of God, offering prayer and praise—at least most do. These religious-but-lost individuals are not in jail, not stretched out with a hangover or some kind of drug addiction. They are respectable, well-dressed, well-traveled, well-accoutered, and rich.

It is a tragedy to be religious but lost. Many in our churches today are. They need to see that they are sinners, and their sins will be punished. Either they let Jesus take the punishment due to their sins, or they will be punished for them. One or the other.

Question to ponder:

Do you know anyone who may be 'religious but lost.' What can you do to try to help them to see Christ and Him crucified?
